New directions for these guys

Success of TV's Glee has boosted appeal of school choir for teenage boys Local students say it's about finding balance between the many interests in one's life

VINCE TALOTTA/TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE

North Toronto C.I. students Cam Watt, left, and Martin Laws both quit the school football team this year to focus on one of their other passions — the school choir. The success of TV show Glee has made this sort of decision more commonplace.

If Martin Laws went to William McKinley High School, he would have been paint-balled, hit in the face with a frozen drink or thrown into a dumpster by now.

That's because in the world according to Glee — Fox's blockbuster TV series about high school show choir — football players shalt not sing. It's against the rules of the teenage caste system. Duh.

For real-life Glee guys, however, it's a different story.

"Do we get picked on?" Laws, a Grade 12 student at North Toronto Collegiate Institute, thinks out loud. The tall, broad-shouldered, leather-jacket-wearing 17-year-old is a proud choir kid.

"No, no we don't," he says, grinning. "No slushies in the face."

"It's definitely OK to do a bunch of different things, and excel academically, too."
CAM WATT,
NORTH TORONTO C.I. CHOIR MEMBER

His choir doubled its male membership this school year — a larger trend many music directors are thanking Glee for.

"It's like the cool thing to do now," says George Randolph, who runs a performing arts school in Toronto and co-directs the newly launched Show Choir Canada.

Randolph says musical theatre was slowly but steadily rising in popularity for about five years. Then Glee came along and knocked the ball out of the park. The runaway success of the show has catapulted high school choir into truly trendy terrain and young men across the country are signing up in droves to sing and dance.

Randolph says shows like Glee send a message that boys who sing and dance don't have to fit into a particular mould.

"It lets all young men know that it's OK to be involved in the arts," he says.

Their stories not forgotten

Veterans honoured at Remembrance Day ceremonies Soldiers paid the price to build Canada's reputation on world stage, premier said

NATHAN DENETTE/THE CANADIAN PRESS

▶ Second World War veterans stand and remember during a Remembrance Day ceremony at the Queen's Park Veteran's Memorial in Toronto on Thursday.

Hundreds of people honoured Canada's veterans at Remembrance Day ceremonies across Ontario on Thursday, with many focusing on thanking veterans young and old.

Speakers at the Ontario legislature reminded attendees that although they should never forget the sacrifices made by veterans of previous wars, they should not overlook the young men and women now serving their country.

Speakers at Queen's Park said they've met young people who show they truly care about the sacrifices that Canadian soldiers have made. Many of the veterans in the crowd were happy to see several children, many on school trips, and others with family.

At the end of the ceremony, people removed the poppies they were wearing and pinned them onto the largest wreath, covering all the green to turn it a bright red. Veterans' organizations and foreign consulates laid wreaths at the Veteran's Memorial.

Twitterers fall silent in honour of veterans

Thousands stepped forward to remember the country's military dead on Thursday, but others also stepped back — from their keyboards. At 11 a.m. in time zones across Canada, not only did people fall silent at cenotaphs, they also fell silent online.

"In respect of Remembrance Day, I'm taking a twitter silence," wrote Alyssa Ciccarelli.

Posting on Twitter or Facebook is akin to putting on a "digital poppy," said Christopher Schneider, a University of British Columbia professor.

Making connections with the younger generation was why Veterans Affairs created their Facebook page, which by Thursday afternoon had been given the thumbs up by close to 400,000 Canadians. Hundreds of simple "thank yous" were posted. Others were more detailed. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Remove prostitution ads now: Liberals

Manitoba, Saskatchewan, Alberta have also asked Craigslist to pull ads

Craigslist was able to quickly pull prostitution-related ads from its American websites at the request of several U.S. attorney generals and should do the same in Canada, says Ontario Attorney General Chris Bentley.

The province first asked the San Francisco-based company to remove the ads under its erotic services section to help fight human trafficking and child exploitation in Ontario in a Sept. 14 letter, just two weeks after Craigslist removed the ads in the United States.

The company wrote back asking for a meeting with Ontario officials, which the province agreed to set up, but the Liberal government says there's no need for Craigslist to wait to remove the ads. THE CANADIAN PRESS

"The urgency to protect Ontario's most vulnerable citizens cannot hinge on a meeting, and we expect you to begin removing this content without delay."

Mobilicity teams up with 7-Eleven

New wireless company Mobilicity will soon offer its contract-free mobile phones at 7-Eleven stores in Toronto, Vancouver and Edmonton.

The 150 7-Eleven stores in the three cities will have Mobilicity wireless phones in time for the holiday shopping season, the Toronto-based wireless carrier said Thursday.

"Like 7-Eleven, Mobilicity caters to customers looking for value and convenience," Doug Perry, the carrier's vice-president of sales, said in a news release. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Competition

▶ The talk-and-text segment of the mobile phone market is experiencing competition as new and established wireless carriers try to scoop up Canadians who haven't owned cellphones before or just want basic services.

Sex assault suspect identified

Toronto police say they have identified a man being sought following the sexual assault of a 13-year-old girl in the city's east end.

Police say the girl was walking in Knob Hill Park near Brimley Road and Graylee Avenue around 3:30 p.m. on Nov. 2 when she was approached by a man and sexually assaulted.

In a release Thursday, police say Devon Steven Simpson, 32, of Toronto, is wanted in the case.

He is described as black, five-feet-six and 160 pounds with short, brown hair and brown eyes.

Police say they want to hear from anyone with information on the case. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Teen allegedly given alcohol, sexually assaulted

Toronto police are alleging a man plied a teenage job applicant with alcohol and sexually assaulted her.

Police say it happened when a 17-year-old girl applied for a job at a restaurant near Dixie Road and Burnhamthorpe Avenue.

Investigators say the girl was given alcohol and driven to various locations in Toronto before being sexually assaulted in a hotel.

Thirty-year-old Balwinder Singh of Brampton has been charged with sexual assault.

He was scheduled to appear in court yesterday.

Police say there may be other alleged victims and want to hear from anyone with information.

Board tightens rules around student fees

TONY BOCK/TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE

▶ Toronto District School Board chair Bruce Davis says changes to the rules governing student fees will allow youth and parents to see where their money is going.

▶ Man was charged with fraud, theft relating to almost $90K

Just two days after a retired principal was charged with theft and fraud of a student activity fund, Toronto's public school board has tightened the rules around such fees.

Although the changes first came before the board months ago, chair Bruce Davis said, "After all the news we've had, this is very timely.

"It's a focus on transparency and accountability, and allowing kids to see where their money is going."

Student fees are usually collected in September and cover the cost of agendas, yearbooks or locks. They vary in amount, but are over $100 in some high schools.

The motion, crafted by former Toronto District School Board student trustee Gorick Ng, says that all schools must post the amount of the fees, and their use, in student agendas as well as on websites.

Parents are also to receive receipts for money paid with an explanation of how the funds will be used.

"Funds collected through student activity fees shall remain in the school or be used to support the student community," the board said in a written release. "Fees charged should reflect the actual cost of the services or materials being provided to the student."

Davis said common sense will prevail. "If parents are giving $15 for a planner and they get a planner, I don't think they really expect to get a receipt for that," he added.

Superstar chef picks Montreal over Toronto

Gordon Ramsay selects Montreal for his first Canadian restaurant In town Nov. 20 for charity event

Culinary superstar Gordon Ramsay has picked the location for his first Canadian restaurant. Sorry Toronto — it's Montreal.

"I definitely found somewhere in Montreal — a neighbourhood, family restaurant," Ramsay said in a recent telephone interview.

That's all the Michelin-starred British chef and Hells' Kitchen star would reveal about his culinary plans, except to add, "I'll be talking to you in the next two weeks."

Indeed, Ramsay will be in Toronto on Nov. 20 for the inaugural Chef's Challenge: The Ultimate Battle for a Cure to raise money for breast and ovarian cancer research at Mount Sinai Hospital.

▶ Gordon Ramsay

So why isn't Ramsay opening a Toronto restaurant, as he told CBCs The Hour in February 2009 he planned on doing?

"Toronto would be a dream, to be honest," he said wistfully before his handler interjected to mark the conclusion of our short telephone interview.

Not only has he chosen Montreal over Toronto, Ramsay admits his heart has been stolen by Whistler. "I'm going to retire in Whistler," vowed the global star, who has restaurants around the world, several television shows and a number of cookbooks. "I want to ski for six months of the year and cook for six months of the year." TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE

Mixed martial arts

IT'S THE MMA GENERATION

It's 5 p.m. and a dozen children have hit the mat at a Toronto club, training to be fierce combatants in one of the most brutal sports around — mixed martial arts.

But nobody's getting their head jammed through the floor, and to Tally Bodenstein-Kales, a child psychologist watching her eight-year-old son, Noah, learn the sport, it's all good.

"What they see on TV is certainly the ugly side of the sport, the side that doesn't appeal to many women for sure," she said. "But in reality when they actually go into these classes, it's nothing like that. It's very gentle and very elegant.

Mixed martial arts are exploding in popularity due to ferocious UFC bouts shown on pay-per-view TV. The McGuinty government's decision in August to allow professional MMA fights in Ontario is also fuelling their popularity.

"And wait till it happens next year when there's an event. Just wait. That's going to be huge. We haven't seen anything yet," said Joel Gerson, president of Revolution MMA, which operates clubs in North York and Thornhill.

Most adults interested in MMA are there for the fitness aspects.

"The reason is that people see these fighters and they're in the best shape of any athlete," Gerson said. "The fitness systems that these MMA athletes are using will get you in the best shape the fastest.

"I can come... not get punched in the face and still do abs and punch a heavy bag and work with a partner ... and get in great shape and I'm not stuck on a treadmill staring at red dots for 45 minutes watching Seinfeld." TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE

AND THEN THERE WAS ONE.

Ontario is now the only province in Canada where dental assistants are not a regulated health profession. This means that dentists can hire people without formal education to do the work of dental assistants. Dental assistants take radiographs, are responsible for infection control and may perform other intra-oral duties.

The Ontario Dental Assistants Association (ODAA), the certifying body for Ontario dental assistants feels this is a matter of public safety. Dental patients have the right to know that everyone working in a dental office is educated and formally trained.

The Ontario government will not review the ODAA's request for regulation until 2013. Meanwhile, for the good of your oral health and safety, ask if your dentist hires only ODAA certified dental assistants.

A message from the Ontario Dental Assistants Association, the certifying body for Ontario Dental Assistants for over 40 years.

PM confirms it: Our troops stay in Afghanistan

Harper agrees to training mission only — with 'some reluctance' Up to 1,000 soldiers to be sent to Kabul

Stephen Harper says he decided with "some reluctance" to extend Canada's military mission in Afghanistan.

The prime minister confirmed Thursday that Canadian troops will stay in Afghanistan to train the country's military after the current combat mission ends in July.

"I do this with some reluctance but I think this is the best decision, when one looks at the options," he said in Seoul, South Korea.

"Look, I'm not going to kid you. Down deep my preference would have been to see a complete end to the military mission."

▶ Stephen Harper takes part in a Remembrance Day ceremony in Seoul.

Previously, Harper had insisted Canadian troops would withdraw by July.

However, NATO countries have been working for months to persuade him to change his mind, and the opposition Liberals suggested they would support an extended training mission.

Harper, speaking on the sidelines of the G20 Summit, acknowledged he has been under pressure by NATO allies to continue in a combat role, but he said a training role was the most he could agree to.

Sources have told The Canadian Press the government is considering sending 600 to 1,000 soldiers to Kabul until 2014 to bolster NATO training efforts.

Hands-free law lethal: Expert

EDMONTON. The president of Canada's Royal College of Physicians and Surgeons says Alberta's bill to crack down on distracted motorists will bring even more road carnage because it still allows drivers to talk on hands-free devices.

"It's misguided. It's dangerous … they should be ashamed of themselves," said Dr. Louis Francescutti.

Bill 16 is expected to pass in the current session of the legislature.

G20 deadlock casts cloud of pessimism

- Seoul summit sharply divided over currency, trade
- Officials can't even come up with a joint statement

A strong sense of pessimism shrouded the start of an economic summit of rich and emerging economies Thursday.

U.S. President Barack Obama and fellow world leaders meeting in Seoul, South Korea, are sharply divided over currency and trade policies.

Hopes had been high that the Group of 20 — encompassing rich nations such as Germany and the U.S. as well as growing giants like China and Brazil — could be the world forum for hashing out an economic way forward from financial crisis.

But agreement appeared elusive as the summit began.

Nations such as United States want China to allow its currency to rise.

Others are irate over U.S. Federal Reserve plans to pump $600 billion of new money into the sluggish U.S. economy, effectively devaluing the dollar.

So far, officials can't even agree on the agenda, much less a draft statement.

Government ministers and G20 officials have laboured for days without success to come up with a joint statement to be issued Friday.

More Mexicans seeking to drive out demons

Critics say priests mistake medical disorders for demonic possession As many as 5 exorcisms per day

The numbers of people seeking priests to drive out demons are thought to be on the rise in Mexico.

While there are no accurate figures for the number of exorcisms in Mexico, the country's National Congress of Exorcists five years ago revealed that as many as five exorcisms per day were taking place in the country.

Critics say priests often mistake genuine psychological or neurological disorders, like Tourette's syndrome, for signs of demonic possession — while people themselves often struggle to choose between a priest and a medical specialist.

Fr. Pedro Mendoza, director of exorcists in the Archdiocese of Mexico City, receives more than 600 telephone calls a month from people who are "bewildered by things they do not understand."

90 Belief in demonic possession and exorcism is common in Mexico, where more than 90% of the population is Catholic.

Mendoza, who has a degree in psychology from one of Latin America's most recognized universities, the National Autonomous University of Mexico, explained that concern among the religious faithful who allegedly felt "possessed" became pronounced in the 1990s and has been on the rise since then.

In February 2010, a chapel in the central city of Queretaro was specifically opened to host exorcisms.

Over the years, Mendoza has met people who were reportedly seeing objects float, lights going on and off, televisions and ovens turning on by themselves, speaking in tongues and contorting their bodies into strange positions.

"Being possessed is a psychological phenomenon, first and foremost. In Mexico City, the eight exorcists working there have not found a single, genuine case of demonic possession," he said.

When your brain is too noisy

Phantom ear ringing caused by brain changes when someone suffers hearing loss: McMaster professor ● New research published in latest edition of Journal of Neuroscience

Attention tinnitus sufferers — that annoying ringing in your ears may be all in your head.

A research team from McMaster University and other Canadian and U.S. universities says it's pinpointed the source of tinnitus.

McMaster Professor Larry Roberts says they have evidence the high-pitched ringing or hissing noise tinnitus sufferers hear is generated by neurons firing in the brain, not the ear.

The phantom and sometimes constant ringing in the ears affects millions of people worldwide and has a negative impact on the quality of their lives.

Roberts says tinnitus is brought on by changes in the brain that take place when someone suffers hearing loss.

Heavy rains ease up in Nova Scotia

The flood threat is abating in rain-soaked areas of southwestern Nova Scotia as water levels recede on most rivers and lakes and the forecast calls for clear skies.

Nova Scotia Power crews reported Thursday that pressure had eased on the Vaughn Lake dam after recording a drop of about 25 centimetres.

They planned to inspect it and gradually reduce the flow through the gates.

A local state of emergency was lifted in the community of Quinan where several people were forced to flee last weekend after a record 250 millimetres of rain fell on the area.

They, along with four families who live near the Carleton dam, were expected to start returning to their homes.

"Everyone is relieved that the situation in southwestern Nova Scotia is beginning to improve," said Ramona Jennex, minister of emergency management, in a release.

"Residents, first responders, local leaders, emergency managers and private partners have worked hard to keep their communities safe. They have shown tremendous community spirit over the last few days."

Pro-junta party wins Myanmar election

Myanmar's pro-junta political party secured a majority of seats in both houses of Parliament, according to the latest official results from the country's first election in 20 years.

The partial batch of results released Thursday confirm the victory of the Union Solidarity and Development Party in Sunday's vote, which critics say was marked by fraud.

State radio Thursday night announced results for 147 constituencies in the Lower House, with the USDP winning 133. USDP won 81 of 86 races newly announced for the Upper House.

Aung San Suu Kyi

- The latest results were announced the same day democracy icon Aung San Suu Kyi lost an appeal for early release from house arrest. The sentence is due to expire Saturday, and close aides are optimistic she will be freed.
- Government officials have said they are making "necessary security preparations" for this weekend.

Via employees broke rules on chemicals

Domestic cleaners can include fragrances, additives that create emissions when used in large quantities: Workplace safety expert

Easy-Off and Windex might be a fixture in the household cupboard, but should they be used to clean the country's passenger trains and rail stations?

Via Rail employees have been buying domestic cleaners and lubricants for use in their operations, a violation of the Crown corporation's rules about using chemicals.

Over-the-counter cleaning products don't generally come with instructions on safe industrial use, and might contain unsuitable ingredients when used in large quantities or in confined spaces.

Credit-card receipts and bills submitted by Via managers and staff in Quebec City, Halifax and Toronto between October 2009 and August 2010 show repeated runs to local Wal-Marts and Home Depots.

The rules

- Via maintenance centres have large orders with chemical suppliers for cleaning and lubricating products that go through an established procurement process.
- Via Rail also adheres to an international set of environmental standards, ISO 14,000, which requires an analysis of each product's impact on the environment.

The documents were obtained by The Canadian Press under the Access to Information Act.

The practice violates Via's procurement rules. "Under no circumstances can employees purchase chemical products with their PCC (purchasing credit card)," says a Via manual. THE CANADIAN PRESS

The first step is helping them to establish a goal for their investments.

The second step is to educate them on the different investor profiles and the asset mix that goes with them. "This comes down to risk tolerance," says MacDonald. "How much risk are you willing to take on to get a particular rate of return?"

Understanding investment choices is the third step. This is important because one needs to consider diversification, tax implications and products available.

Building the portfolio and taking action to turn that portfolio into fruition are the next two steps.

The final step is to then monitor the portfolio. This requires ensuring one's investments stay aligned with the appropriate balance because not all of a person's investments will rise or fall at the same rate.

"Consider rebalancing your portfolio at least once a year," says MacDonald. "This is a step most investors fail to recognize, but it's just as critical as the initial establishment of the portfolio."

RBC Direct Investing has tools to help investors do just this.

Tools include a goal setting tool, which lets people know how realistic it is to achieve their goal, an Analyze and Rebalance tool, to help investors identify their portfolio's diversification by asset class, region, sector and holding concentration and there is also a Performance tool, which allows investors to see how their personal rate of return compares to their expectations and against other standard investor portfolios.

MacDonald says the ideal self-directed investor usually has three attributes:

1. A desire to have more control over their investments.
2. Investing knowledge or an interest in developing it.
3. Comfort using the internet and online technologies.

Britain ends free ride for welfare

In Spain, third strike means loss of payments for life

Britain announced the most radical overhaul in decades Thursday to its once-generous welfare system, pledging harsh penalties for those who refuse jobs and community work service for the unemployed in return for benefit cheques. Critics have long said the cradle-to-grave social safety net offered hefty benefits not available in other major economies — encouraging some to snub modest jobs for handouts.

Tweets test limits of freedom of speech. Scan code for the story.

Under the new plan, many of the five million people who claim jobless benefits will be ordered to do four weeks of unpaid community work to remain eligible for their £65 ($105) weekly welfare payment. The stints could include manual labour tasks like removing graffiti or gardening in public parks.

Militants attack Pakistani police station

- At least 15 killed after car bomb levels building
- Blast could be heard from several kilometres away

Militants attacked a police compound in the heart of Pakistan's largest city Thursday with a hail of gunfire and a massive car bomb, levelling the building and killing at least 15 people, authorities and witnesses said.

The gang of around six gunmen managed to penetrate a high-security area of Karachi that is home to the U.S. consulate, two luxury hotels and the offices of regional leaders.

While no stranger to extremist violence, Karachi has not witnessed this kind of organized assault in recent years.

It was the first major attack against a government target outside the northwestern tribal regions for several months, showing the reach of Islamic militants seeking to overthrow the U.S.-allied government despite efforts to crack down on them over the last three years.

The gunmen first opened fire on the offices of the crime investigation department before detonating a huge car bomb, said Sindh Home Minister Zulfiqar Mirza. The building has a detention facility that was believed to be holding criminals, and possibly militants. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Lines for cold, spoiled food stretched for hours, passengers said
Navy helicopters flew in packaged food for 4,500 passengers and crew

Six tugboats pulled a stricken cruise ship into San Diego Bay early Thursday, bringing the nearly 4,500 passengers and crew closer to freedom after three days of limited food, smelly toilets and dark cabins.

Escorted by U.S. Coast Guard cutters, the nearly 1,000-foot Carnival Splendor reached the harbour mouth shortly before 7:30 a.m., coast guard petty officer Rachel Polish said. It was expected to take another two hours to dock and several more before the nearly 4,500 passengers and crew disembarked.

"Every day is getting more frustrating for some people. You can tell some people are just angry," passenger Kate Kapelka told CBS's Early Show Thursday morning.

MP wants succession pitch probed

Liberals are calling for an investigation into a retiring Tory MP who used public money to endorse his political successor.

Liberal MP Carolyn Bennett is asking House of Commons Speaker Peter Milliken to immediately start an investigation into a letter sent by outgoing Tory MP Greg Thompson last month to party members in his New Brunswick riding.

The Oct. 18 letter, written on Commons letterhead and sent using Thompson's free parliamentary mailing privileges, urged local Tories to support John Williamson's bid to become the Conservative candidate in the next federal election.

Williamson, a former communications director to Prime Minister Stephen Harper, won the nomination five days later.

Montreal mob hit gets play in Italy

Elderly Mafia don Nicolo Rizzuto was shot Wednesday in his home in Montreal ◐ Gunman is believed to have lurked in woods behind house

The killing of a Canadian Mafia don is generating attention in faraway places.

Italy's major newspaper websites all carried reports of the murder of the 86-year-old Nicolo Rizzuto, shot in his home Wednesday.

Some reports and blogs interpreted the impact it might have on the underworld.

"With the death of its historical patriarch the clan from Sicily has suffered a blow that could prove fatal," said one news report from the Ansa agency.

"After 30 years of dominance, the power of the Rizzutos on Montreal's organized-crime scene has been called into question over the past year."

One of those same newspaper websites, the Corriere della Sera, also carried a report on 40,000 people attending a recent anti-Mafia march in Calabria and denouncing the pervasive criminal presence in the country.

THE CANADIAN PRESS

Sunni bloc walks out of Iraqi parliament

U.S. pushed for major Sunni role in government, fearing disillusioned Sunnis could turn to insurgency

Iraq's president gave Shiite Prime Minister Nouri al-Maliki the nod to form the next government Thursday after an eight-month deadlock, but a dramatic walkout from parliament by his Sunni rivals cast doubt on a power-sharing deal reached by the two sides a day earlier.

The walkout underlined the Sunni minority's reluctance over the prospective new unity government outlined in the deal, which ensures continued Shiite domination while giving Sunnis a role far short of the greater political power they seek.

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

▶ Shiite Prime Minister Nouri al-Maliki

The power-sharing deal reached Wednesday night was heralded by some politicians as a breakthrough, ending months of wrangling since the inconclusive March 7 parliament elections.

But Sunnis were already accusing al-Maliki of not fulfilling promises and have warned they could pull out if they are not met.

At a press conference after the walkout, a lawmaker from the Sunni-backed Iraqiya bloc, Haider al-Mulla, did not answer when asked whether the bloc would participate in the government. Instead, he said Iraqiya would seek "explanations from al-Maliki and State of Law over their broken commitments."

China's post-Nobel clampdown its toughest in years

Since Liu's win was announced Oct. 8, state media has launched campaign against activist, Nobel officials

Dissident writer Yu Jie and his wife are prisoners in their apartment. Blocked by security agents outside their building, the couple have been living on deliveries of takeout food and groceries for nearly a month and voraciously reading to stave off boredom.

The Yu family and scores of other activists are targets of one of the most extensive campaigns of surveillance, house arrest and harassment by Chinese police against dissidents in years. The clampdown was brought on by the government's fury over the Nobel Peace Prize awarded to democracy campaigner Liu Xiaobo.

The breadth of the police action underscores the authoritarian government's anxieties that the Nobel prize could unleash demands for political change. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Tims beats a retreat from New England

But CEO says coffee chain is in U.S. market to stay • Tim Hortons opened 35 locations in United States in third quarter and 44 in Canada

CHRIS YOUNG/THE CANADIAN PRESS

▶ Tim Hortons has been making inroads into the American market, but says the closures in New England are necessary because the stores are situated in some of the most intensely competitive markets for quick-service restaurants.

Tim Hortons says the money-losing New England stores it has slated for closure have cost the chain $4.4 million so far this year and that a retreat from the fledgling market will improve its U.S. profits.

The Oakville-based company announced late Wednesday that it plans to close the doors at 36 coffee and doughnut shops and 18 self-service kiosks in the northeastern United States, a move that will cost the company $50 million.

Tims closed some locations in New England in 2008 and has tried to boost sales in the remaining locations. However, performance has fallen short of the expectations Tims had when it acquired a small chain of coffee shops as a platform for growth, said Tim Hortons president and CEO Don Schroeder.

"Even though these restaurants ... represent a small portion of our overall system, they had a disproportionately negative effect on our business performance in the U.S. in 2010."
DON SCHROEDER, TIM HORTONS PRESIDENT AND CEO

The iconic Canadian restaurant operator has been making inroads into the American market, but says the closures are necessary because the stores are situated in some of the most intensely competitive markets for quick-service restaurants.

All but two of the store closures will come in Providence, R.I., and Hartford, Conn., where average sale volumes have been about half of those in other U.S. markets. It will also close two restaurants in Portland, Ma.

The closures, which represent a small fraction of the 600-plus stores Tims has in the United States, were largely responsible for the company's third-quarter profit missing analysts' expectations. Tim Hortons earned $73.8 million in the third quarter or 42 cents per share — up more than 20 per cent from last year, but falling short of an average analysts target of 53 cents per share. DAVID DESCÔTEAUX

A CASH COW CALLED LCBO

Every Christmas season, my girlfriend and I hit the snowy road. Destination: The Hawkesbury LCBO, where I always leave the store with two cases of red wine.

Hundreds of Quebecers make similar pilgrimages every year.

Why? Most bottles are cheaper there than in Quebec. (Like the SAQ, the LCBO is a state monopoly. Just less rapacious.)

But I shouldn't have to go to Hawkesbury. Consumers in Quebec, and elsewhere in Canada, could find cheaper wines home ... if we could just break the liquor boards' monopolies across the country.

In Quebec, defenders of the status quo keep repeating that the SAQ is a "cash cow" for the State. But this generous yearly dividend comes from our wallets. We, captive consumers, pay a premium for our bottles of Merlot and Cabernet Sauvignon. The only reason the SAQ makes an abnormally high profit is because it's a monopoly. Without competitors, it can bleed consumers. The SAQ takes a margin of 40 per cent to 135 per cent on each bottle it sells. It pays $5 to a producer, takes a $7 cut and sells the bottle for $15 (including taxes). Yes, the SAQ is a cash cow for politicians. But it's us, the consumers, who are being milked!

Should we privatize the SAQ? Not necessarily. A private monopoly would be no better than a public one. What we need is more competition. We need to allow entrepreneurs to open wine shops and compete with the SAQ. We also need to allow people to buy bottles from around the world over the Internet, without having to go through the SAQ. For example: You like the Jacob's Creek Shiraz 2007? A store in New Jersey is selling it for $6.53. On the SAQ's shelves, the same bottle will set you back $14.90. This wine can be bought on the Internet and delivered to your door in less than two weeks.

"Yes, Alberta has privatized its market, but only partially. The government has kept a monopoly over wholesale and distribution."

The problem is not the SAQ itself, or the LCBO. The problem is the prohibition of competition. In Belgium, a non-producing country whose population and culture are similar to Quebec's, the wine market is completely free. Hundreds of retailers compete with each other. As a result, they have three times the wines, for a third of the price.

Quebecers and other Canadians like wine. Many are connoisseurs, and eager to try new varieties and vineyards. They deserve better than a state monopoly that is clearly corked.

5 MINUTES WITH: DANEAL CHARNEY

She's an expert on Generation Y in the workplace. Now this seasoned career coach, presenter and author has come out with Hitting Stryde, the ultimate early career survival guide.

Today's grads are looking at a bleak market. Is it really that hopeless or do they simply need to redefine their opportunities?
I think the job market belongs to graduates who see themselves as free agents. So even if they're working within an organization, the mentality is that they are, instead of the CEOs, the Me-E-Os of their career. They're the ones who have to find their career direction and be very active in networking and finding new opportunities.

In your book you talk about the importance of personal branding. Can you explain what that means?
Simply defined, it's just what's different about you and what you offer. I think this is important to define not only in terms of a conversation with a prospective employer, but also it helps you define the kind of opportunity and work culture that fits you.

We've been hearing about social networking-related dangers, but how can job seekers use the Internet in a positive way?
I highly recommend tools like LinkedIn where you can build an online profile, because this is where a lot of recruiters are. So make sure if you have a social networking profile that it represents your work and your non-paid experience to really highlight who you are as a person. And also use your e-signature at the bottom of your email as an opportunity to get people to look at your online presence.

Facebook: Good or bad?
It's obviously a brilliant tool, even though I don't entirely understand it — and I'm on it, too! (Laughs) But in terms of job prospecting, you have to make sure that the information you share is what you're comfortable sharing with your next employer.

What are some of the things people can do to offset the sense of defeat and frustration during a long job search?
Having a weekly check-in with someone you trust will help you keep on track. If you think of traffic lights, you will prompt them to ask you what you need to stop doing, what you need to start doing and what you need to continue doing. This can also be a self-reflection exercise.

Worth mentioning

Grumpy the clown won the election in a laugher. Now he has to prove that he can read and write.

The Sao Paulo Electoral Court held a closed-door exam for the clown turned congressman-elect Thursday to determine if he meets a constitutional mandate that federal lawmakers be literate.

Francisco Silva became famous as Tiririca — "Grumpy" in Portuguese — and received about 1.3 million votes, nearly twice as many as the next-highest vote-getter in last month's congressional elections. His campaign videos drew millions of viewers on the Internet, with slogans such as "It can't get any worse" and "What does a federal deputy do? Truly, I don't know. But vote for me and you'll find out."

But a less humorous element emerged during the campaign. Allegations that Silva, like 10 per cent of Brazilians, is illiterate. Judge Aloisio Silveira ordered that Silva must demonstrate he can read and write.

Following Thursday's test, the president of the electoral court, Judge Walter de Almeida Guilherme, told reporters that Silva "read and wrote" during the exam, but did not offer more details. A final ruling is not expected before Friday.

Metro Minute with winter tuques

Just wait, Toronto. It may be unseasonably warm this week, but once that barometer drops, boy … your nose is going to start growing icicles all over again. The solution, of course, has always been dressing properly for the cold. We know, we know. Your hair. You look stupid in hats. Whatever. Now you don't have any excuse.

Holt Renfrew and Canada Goose have teamed up to launch a limited edition tuque. The headwear, available at all Holts' locations, comes in red and black, and proceeds go toward the worldwide conservation of polar bears.

So now your only excuse for being cold is that you hate polar bears.

The Social Network and the King's Speech are two early Oscar darlings ◗ Firth, Portman favoured to get the Best Acting nominations ◗ With 10 Best Picture nominees, the field has a wide variety of hopefuls, from blockbuster Harry Potter to Sundance fave Winter's Bone

THE WEINSTEIN COMPANY FOX SEARCHLIGHT

▶ Colin Firth and Natalie Portman are getting Oscar buzz for their work in The King's Speech and Black Swan.

It's the start of Oscar season

Two dramas unfolding in a new world of global communications could emerge as front-runners at the Academy Awards.

Director David Fincher's The Social Network is set in modern times as the founders of the website Facebook battle over their creation. Tom Hooper's The King's Speech takes place in the 1920s and '30s as Queen Elizabeth II's dad struggles with his speech impediment at a time when the royal family is counted on to voice reassurance through the new medium of radio.

The Social Network has almost universal acclaim, a hip subject and impressive box-office results since it opened Oct. 1. The King's Speech does not open until late November, but it's an old-fashioned awards contender; a classy period piece that has been an audience favourite at film festivals for its heart and humour.

Nominations come out Jan. 25, with the Oscars presented on Feb. 27.

Here's we look at some predictions for best picture and other top Oscar categories.

BEST PICTURE

Assuming The King's Speech and The Social Network make the cut, eight other films will compete for the remaining slots as the Oscars go with 10 best-picture nominees again. B Blockbusters such as animated comedy Toy Story 3, heist drama The Town and Harry Potter and the Deathly Hallows: Part 1, the next-to-last film in the fantasy franchise, are contenders.

Smaller releases could slip in, including Ozark thriller and top Sundance winner Winter's Bone, the family comic drama The Kids Are All Right, 127 hours, and Never Let Me Go, a tragic tale set in an alternate reality.

Other contenders include Hereafter, Another Year, Somewhere, Barney's Version, Black Swan, True Grit and How Do You Know.

BEST ACTOR

Colin Firth earned his first Oscar nomination for last year's A Single Man, and some who have seen him as George VI in The King's Speech think Oscar voters should just hand him the best-actor prize.

There's plenty of glibness to be had among other contenders, including Jesse Eisenberg's savagely biting Facebook founder in The Social Network; James Franco as a one-man force of nature, playing a climber trapped alone in a canyon in 127 Hours; and Paul Giamatti in the life story of a crusty producer of schlock TV in Barney's Version.

BEST ACTRESS

Natalie Portman is an unholy terror in Black Swan. A past supporting-actress nominee for Closer, Portman gives herself completely to her role as a goody two-shoes ballerina whose menacing dark side emerges as she prepares for her dream role in Swan Lake.

Annette Bening dominates The Kids Are All Right as the acerbic authoritarian in a family of lesbian parents.

Other possibilities are Anne Hathaway, Love & Other Drugs; Sally Hawkins, Made in Dagenham; Nicole Kidman, Rabbit Hole; Diane Lane, Secretariat; Jennifer Lawrence, Winter's Bone; Helen Mirren, The Tempest; Carey Mulligan, Never Let Me Go; Naomi Watts, Fair Game; Michelle Williams, Blue Valentine.

Morning Glory reveals the further encroachment of entertainment into news, with Harrison Ford playing an old-school anchor who's forced to co-host a network morning program. Merely the notion of fashion and cooking segments causes him to bristle.

But this theme has been explored several times before — and much more proficiently — throughout the years in movies. Television in general has long been a favoured subject for filmmakers; it's the next best thing to skewering their own industry.

Here are five movies about TV that truly are must-see viewing:

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

For Richard Crouse's take on movies about TV, go to metronews.ca

A Face in the Crowd
Director Elia Kazan and writer Budd Schulberg were eerily prescient more than 50 years ago in depicting the power of television to make or break a personality, to turn an unknown into a magnetic figure or a megalomaniac — or both simultaneously. In his film debut, Andy Griffith is hugely charismatic as Larry Lonesome Rhodes, a rambling, country-boy drunk with a gift for song. In no time, a star is born, and that star grows into a monster. TV comes calling, then groupies, then politicians.

Network
Long before Broadcast News lamented the softening of TV news, Sidney Lumet probed the same themes, but with a sharper sense of satire. Like Kazan's film, so much of what happens in Network remains so relevant today. Paddy Chayefsky's Oscar-winning script about a newsman gone mad can be over the top, but it also provides a disturbing look at power and desperation. Faye is fierce (and stylish) as the ratings-hungry TV executive who will do anything to keep the numbers up.

Good Night, and Good Luck
In his second film as a director, George Clooney proves he's an unexpected master of timing and suspense. His recreation of pioneering newsman Edward R. Murrow's on-air battles with Sen. Joseph McCarthy over the senator's 1950s anti-communist crusade is an ambitious marvel of precise vision. Shot in crisp black and white and set in only a few rooms at the CBS News headquarters, it has the spare look and cadence of a play and runs an efficient 90 minutes.

The Truman Show
Twelve years ago, reality television was still relatively in its infancy, but director Peter Weir and writer Andrew Niccol vividly presage the phenomenon of celebrity culture gone wild, and the voyeuristic fascination with learning the most intimate details of a person's private life. Jim Carrey stars as Truman Burbank, a happy-go-lucky insurance salesman who has no idea his entire idyllic life is a television show, and actors playing his wife, friendly neighbours and co-workers.

Tootsie
All the players here are at the top of their game: Dustin Hoffman as notoriously difficult actor Michael Dorsey, who lands a soap opera role by dressing in drag and calling himself Dorothy Michaels; Sydney Pollack, hitting all the right notes as director and providing harsh laughs as Michael's agent; and Teri Garr, Charles Durning and Dabney Coleman, who all stand out in supporting parts. It's slapsticky and absurd, but it also has something to say about gender roles.

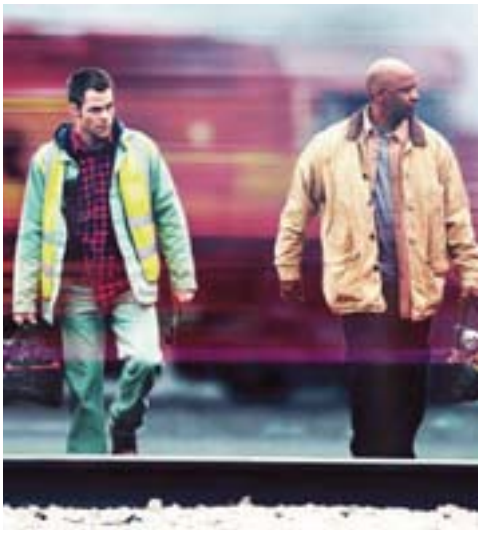
A train ride that goes nowhere



Unstoppable
Genre: Action
Director: Tony Scott
Stars: Denzel Washington, Chris Pine, Rosario Dawson

How do you make a film about a runaway train exciting? It's a vehicle on a set track that's route is known before it ever loses control. The solution director Tony Scott came up with was to fill the train with generic "hazardous material" and hire a bunch of recognizable actors too look sweaty and stressed in a never-ending series of extreme close-ups. Sure, there are a few scenes where the train crashes into something and makes a pretty explosion, but it's still practically impossible to be thrilled by a speeding train.

Part of the problem is that this is a true story that has been dressed up with so much Hollywood gloss that not a thread of reality remains. Denzel Washington and Chris "Captain Kirk" Pine aren't believable as working class train workers for a second and when both actors delve into their troubled personal lives with mid-chase monologues the movie grinds to a laughable halt (if only they could have stopped the runaway train with melodrama). Now, it's not all bad. Tony Scott knows how to make a movie look good and his use of physical effects is a nice nostalgic change of pace from CGI spectacle. Unfortunately none of that changes the fact that Unstoppable is just one big dumb hollow movie.

PHIL BROWN

127 Hours
Genre: Drama
Director: Danny Boyle
Stars: James Franco, Kate Mara, Amber Tamblyn
●●●●

Danny Boyle's first film since Slumdog Millionaire earned a reputation for shock on the festival circuit. A plot synopsis will explain why. The film is about the true story of Aron Ralston, who in 2003 was trapped in a canyon for five days and was forced to cut off his own arm to survive. James Franco stars as Ralston and gives the best performance of his career, guiding the audience through the ordeal with a mixture of charm and raw emotion.

PHIL BROWN

Monsters
Genre: Action/Drama
Director: Gareth Edwards
Stars: Scoot McNairy, Whitney Able
●●●

Don't let the title fool you — there aren't actually a ton of Monsters in this ambitious but slightly unfulfilling sci-fi thriller. Made on a shoestring budget by effects wunderkind Gareth Edwards, Monsters is essentially a road movie about a young American couple crossing "infected" Mexico where an enormous octopus-like species has been leaving a wake of destruction. Like District 9, Monsters is intent on selling subtext.

STEVE GOW

Down Terrace
Genre: Drama
Director: Ben Wheatley
Stars: Robin Hill, Robert Hill, Julia Deakin
●●●½

Down Terrace is a hilarious and intriguing kitchen sink black comedy shot in eight days by first-time British director Ben Wheatley who cut his teeth on viral videos and TV work. A mix of professional and non-experienced actors populate a family of drug dealers and their rotating group of grotesque friends. The tone is odd, almost like a movie that would exist if Mike Leigh were a long lost Coen brother.

PHIL BROWN

I Wish I Knew
Genre: Documentary
Director: Jia Zhangke
Stars: Zhao Tao, Lim Giong, Lin Xudong
●●●●

Jia Zhangke's last film, 24 City, was about the difficulty of locating a personal perspective within Chinese history. His follow-up, I Wish I Knew, continues the project while narrowing its scope to a single city — Shanghai. Contrasting archival footage with contemporary images, Jia locates the city as the epicentre of an entire country's social and economic upheaval. This is less a documentary than a cinematic essay, and it's heady, rewarding stuff.

ADAM NAYMAN

Kisses
Genre: Drama
Director: Lance Daly
Stars: Kelly O'Neal, Shane Curry, Paul Roe
●●●

Kisses is a slight wisp of a movie with surprising emotional resonance by writer/director Lance Daly. The simple story is about two abused children who run away from home on Christmas to spend the night on the streets of Dublin. Not much else happens, but the situation is so delicately handled by Daly with extraordinarily raw performances by first time child actors Kelly O'Neal and Shane Curry that's it can be hard to tear your eyes from the screen.

A referendu

Documentary asks the question, who owns the Star Wars franchise: the creator George Lucas or the fans?

ADAM NAYMAN
SCENE@METRONEWS.CA

"We've been called a bunch of whiny fanboys," says Alexandre O. Philippe, whose wry and entertaining documentary The People Vs. George Lucas opens at Bell Lightbox after its Canadian premiere at Hot Docs earlier this year.

"We even received a few death threats. I think that people got hung up on the title, and assumed that it was just a movie version of the Star Wars bashing that you find online. But the idea was to make a film that was a balanced debate."

He succeeded on that count. Edited together out of amateur videos, Internet ephemera and interviews with pop-culture experts and disgruntled fans alike, The People Vs. George Lucas unfolds as a referendum on whether or not George Lucas has been too overzealous in controlling — and in some cases rewriting — the history of his beloved fantasy franchise.

"The central question of the doc," says Muratore, "is whether Star Wars belongs to George Lucas, or to his fans."

Not surprisingly, Lucas didn't choose to participate in the project, although producer Robert Muratore says that his team did reach out. "(Lucasfilm) has been courteous to us. They say 'we welcome the debate.' But they don't think it's appropriate to participate in it themselves."

This courtesy extends to the fact that there are plenty of clips from the Star Wars films in The People Vs. George Lucas, all of which Muratore explains has either been cleared or falls under the terms of fair use.

▶ A claymation remake of a scene from Star Wars. The People Vs. George Lucas looks at how the creator of the Star Wars franchise is viewed by fans.

But the bulk of the footage was gleaned from far less official sources: The most enjoyable bits of the film are comprised of fan videos that spoof, honour and in some cases wildly re-imagine scenes and characters from the series' universe.

"We put out a call in 2007 encouraging fans to voice their opinions and send us their films," says Philippe. "And we got 600 hours' worth of submissions, which was really kind of crazy."

Potter gets set for final pair of films

Harry Potter's journey is nearly over.

Harry Potter and the Deathly Hallows: Part 1 – the next-to-last installment in the film franchise about the teen wizard – premiered Thursday in London ahead of its theatrical release next week.

The adaptation of J.K. Rowling's seventh and final novel comes in two installments, with the second film due out next July.

Fans may leave frustrated that they have to wait eight months for the finale, but Rowling's last book needed to be broken into two parts for the big screen, said Daniel Radcliffe, who stars as Harry.

"I was always very much in favour of it being two parts, and I think most people were, simply because we all realized there was no way you could do justice to the book and really capture the story in one film," Radcliffe told The Associated Press.

In the first six books, there was secondary action that could be cut from the movies, "themes, which while exciting and fans love them, simply don't add anything to the main thrust of the story," Radcliffe said. "In the seventh book, there is very little extraneous stuff that's not actually contributing heavily to the main plot line."

Part 1 sends Harry and pals Hermione (Emma Watson) and Ron (Rupert Grint) outside their usual haunts at Hogwarts School of Witchcraft and Wizardry as they search for artifacts that are the key to the power of dark Lord Voldemort (Ralph Fiennes).

"It's kind of an edgy road movie where these three iconic characters, who we've always seen in this magical place called Hogwarts, are thrust out in to the big, bad world and have to fend for themselves and survive," said David Yates, who directed both parts of Deathly Hallows as well as the fifth and sixth Harry Potter films.

"As much as we love Hogwarts, we needed a fresh environment. We needed to be out of our comfort zones, definitely," Watson said.

ENBRIDGE

Before clearing a blocked sewer service line outside a house or building call Ontario One Call

Is the sewer service line beyond the outside wall of your home or building blocked? If so, it is extremely important that you make sure no natural gas line intersects the sewer line before attempting to clear it. Using rotating or water jetting equipment to clear a blocked sewer line can damage a natural gas line and cause a serious gas leak. Ontario One Call offers free Natural Gas Sewer Safety Inspections on behalf of Enbridge. Inspections are offered throughout the Enbridge Gas Distribution service area, even if you are not a natural gas customer.

TV star Cory Monteith gleeful about Gemini gig

IAN JOHNSTON
SCENE@METRONEWS.CA

Life has changed quite drastically for Glee star Cory Monteith in the last two years. A self-described Canadian "working class actor," Glee's success means Monteith now has to cope with daily paparazzi and ever-present fans. Still, he ain't complaining.

"I went for coffee yesterday and a little car pulled up in front of me and start taking pictures of me, which was fine," says Monteith, who plays Finn Hudson on the dramedy.

"And then I went back to my car and started driving away and I saw the guy running to his car to try and follow me. I just roll with it. It's just part and parcel of what this all is.

"Making sure my zipper is up when I leave the house is really important."
CORY MONTEITH ON HIS NEWFOUND RELATIONSHIP WITH THE PAPARAZZI

Making sure my zipper is up when I leave the house is really important."

Part of that newfound fame means Monteith has been tabbed to host this year's Gemini Awards, honoring the best in Canadian television.

"I can't believe I'm part of the show and especially now I'm hosting. What the heck? Presenting is even cool, but I'm the host. It's a tall order."

Monteith credits his years spent as a busy west coast actor on shows like Stargate, Whistler, and Supernatural with preparing him for his recent success.

"Absolutely. It only helped me. I think having cut my teeth doing a lot of stuff back home and figuring out how to act has proven indispensible," says Monteith, who has a few skeletons in his acting closet that may be revealed at the Geminis.

"That's a good idea. I'm absolutely prepared to make fun of myself. So if anyone would like to talk about the funnier or dumber things that I've done, I'm game. There's a wolfman movie that comes to mind (Hybrid)."

In its second season, Monteith feels Glee is only now hitting its stride.

"I think the tone of the show has got more specified. I think the writing (and) the characters have gotten a lot more specific and the show has kind of developed a feel," he says.

All-star lineup to rock show

The Gemini Awards have pumped up the star wattage, announcing Elvis Costello, Feist and Ron Sexsmith as its musical performers.

Costello, who's nominated for best talk series for his show Spectacle, will perform with Feist, Sexsmith, fiddler Kendel Carson and bassist Barry Bales at the 25th Gemini Awards gala on Saturday. Big nominees heading into the show include CTV's cop drama Flashpoint, CBC's Republic of Doyle and HBO's Winnipeg-based comedy Less Than Kind.

CONAN O'BRIEN

TV

It looks like Conan O'Brien is getting the last laugh after all. The former Tonight Show host's new show was welcomed by more than 4.1 million viewers in the U.S. when it premiered this week; beating The Daily Show with Jon Stewart, The Colbert Report, and — perhaps fittingly — the Tonight Show with Jay Leno.

MICHAEL JACKSON

MUSIC

He died more than a year ago, but Michael Jackson is still causing controversy. This time, the newest to-do follows the release of a new song, Breaking News, supposedly by the late King of Pop. While Jackson's family is protesting the release, the music company behind it is vouching for its authenticity. The outcome? Likely a lot of sales and downloads.

THE LAST AIRBENDER

DVD

Sure, M. Night Shyamalan's track record at the theatres has turned from gold to tarnished tin, but that is no reason why you shouldn't pick up his latest, The Last Airbender, on DVD or Blu-ray next Tuesday.

CONCRETE WALLPAPER

DECOR

Looking for a way to get that loft-living feel in your suburban bungalow? A company in Norway has created a line of wallpaper designed to look like concrete. Unique and realistic, its line includes the look of polished concrete, exposed bricks, and worn-and-torn exposed texturing. Check it out at concretewall.no.

MASTERS OF CINEMA

FILM

Anyone with a cinephile on their Holiday shopping list will want to check out Cahiers du cinema's Masters of Cinema collection. The 10 books in the series each concentrate on the career of one of the best known movie makers of our time, including David Lynch, Woody Allen and Francis Ford Coppola. The books each sell for $11.95.

HARRY POTTER MAGIC EYE

BOOKS

Remember those posters that were popular in the late-'80s and early-'90; a repetitive jumble of images that, the more you stared at them the more they turned into a single 3-D photo? Go wild for mushroom soup

Soup is a perfect lunch or dinner option for the cold winter days ahead Step it up a notch by adding porcini mushrooms and ground walnuts to traditional mushroom soup

HO/CANADIAN PRESS

Wild Mushroom Soup

Wild mushrooms and walnuts add earthy flavour to this warming soup. This rich and luscious dish is an enticing change from the traditional mushroom soup. Porcini mushrooms and ground walnuts offer an earthy contrast to the mild broth.

Ingredients:

- 30 ml (2 tbsp) butter
- 750 g (1 1/2 lbs) wild and white mushrooms
- 60 g (2 oz) dried porcini mushrooms, reconstituted
- 250 ml (1 cup) ground walnuts
- 1/2 onion, diced
- 2 cloves garlic, minced
- 2 celery stalks, diced
- 2 bay leaves
- 50 ml (1/4 cup) flour
- 1.5 l (6 cups) hot chicken or vegetable broth
- 75 ml (1/3 cup) sherry
- 30 ml (2 tbsp) fresh thyme
- 250 ml (1 cup) whipping cream
- Salt and pepper, to taste
- Sauteed mushrooms and/or crumbled blue cheese, for garnish

Wild Mushroom Soup Preparation:

1. To reconstitute dried porcini mushrooms: Follow directions on the package. Or combine porcini and 375 ml (1 1/2 cups) boiling water in medium bowl. Let stand until porcini softens, 15 to 20 minutes. Remove porcini from water and chop coarsely.
2. In a large, heavy-bottomed stock pot on high heat, melt butter. Add mushrooms, walnuts, onion, garlic, celery and bay leaves, and saute until lightly browned (5 to 10 minutes). Reduce heat to medium, stir in flour and cook for another 2 minutes. Stirring constantly, slowly add hot broth and sherry and bring to a boil.
3. Let simmer for 20 minutes and remove bay leaves.
4. Remove from heat and, using an immersion blender, pulse until mushrooms are nearly pureed or until desired consistency.
5. Return to heat, bring to a boil and add thyme and cream. Stir to combine. Garnish with sauteed wild mushrooms and/or crumbled blue cheese, if desired, and serve. Makes six servings.

Meatless made easy

Vegetarianism is hardly a new culinary concept as more Canadians embrace its diversity and obvious health benefits.

"With the sheer number and variety of vegetables available now and the styles and recipes from around the world, we are seeing more meatless dishes on our tables," says Alison Kent, special publications food editor with Canadian Living magazine.

To celebrate the fact that vegetarian meals have become mainstream, the magazine has produced Canadian Living: The Vegetarian Collection: Creative Meat-Free Dishes That Nourish & Inspire (Transcontinental Books, $22.95, paperback).

Kent, a trained chef, was assisted by the magazine's test kitchen staff to offer a description of each vegetarian type, from vegan and lacto-vegetarian to flexitarian.

Some of the recipes in the book come from the magazine's recipe archives, she says, and the chef in her "tweaked some of them a little bit."

Kent says the recipes are mainly seasonless, although there are some wonderful fall and winter soups, risottos and roasted root vegetables as well as squash dishes and curries.

There is even a chapter on making fresh chutney and curry pastes.

"Eating locally in winter is difficult," she says, "but between choosing hot house, frozen and root vegetables, it is possible."

The recipes are organized into eight food categories, including grains, pulses and beans, pasta, soy products, seeds and nuts, eggs and cheese, vegetables as well as a chapter on stocks, sauces, breads and basics. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Honouring the legacy of McQueen

The Costume Institute of The Metropolitan Museum of Art will honour the memory and vision of the late designer Alexander McQueen through a retrospective exhibit next year.

The 100-piece exhibit, slated to open May 4, will examine McQueen's career from his postgraduate student styles through his tenure at Givenchy and to the collection presented posthumously after he committed suicide in February. Signature items, including the bumster trouser and the kimono jacket, will be included with items from the McQueen and Givenchy corporate archives and his private collection.

"Alexander McQueen was best known for his astonishing and extravagant runway presentations, which were given dramatic scenarios and narrative structures that suggested avant-garde installation and performance art," curator Andrew Bolton said in a statement. "He was a true romantic in the Byronic sense of the word."

The gala connected to the spring exhibit in 2011 will have honourary chairmen Francois-Henri Pinault, chief executive of luxury conglomerate PPR, and his wife Salma Hayek. Colin Firth, Stella McCartney and Vogue editor-in-chief Anna Wintour are co-chairs.

350 years of U.S.-Jewish experience

The Museum of American Jewish History, opening in Philadelphia, will exhibit untold stories of the freedom and civil rights struggles of Jews

After 34 years in cramped quarters, a new museum opening in the heart of Philadelphia's historic district aims to tell the complete story of the Jewish experience in America.

Plans to expand the National Museum of American Jewish History were a decade in the making. A grand opening weekend kicks off with a gala tonight featuring Bette Midler and Jerry Seinfeld, and a Sunday dedication with Vice-President Joe Biden as keynote speaker.

A series of special access days for museum members and funders are scheduled over the next two weeks before it opens to the public on Nov. 26.

The five-storey museum's mission is to explore 350 years of Jewish life in the U.S., and highlight freedom, civil rights, prejudice and assimilation.

"We have many Holocaust museums and memorials, so that chapter [has been] told appropriately quite completely," museum president Michael Rosenzweig said. "The chapter that we tell in this museum is one that hasn't been as well told."

The $150-million terra cotta and glass facility replaces a brick building that displayed 40 objects when it opened in 1976.

On the first floor, an "Only in America" gallery examines contributions of 18 Jewish Americans.

The second, third and fourth floors use films, interactive displays and artifacts from the arrival of Jews to North America in 1654 to the present. The top floor will host rotating exhibitions.

A central atrium fills the space with natural light; below ground level are classrooms and a 200-seat auditorium for films, concerts and theatre.

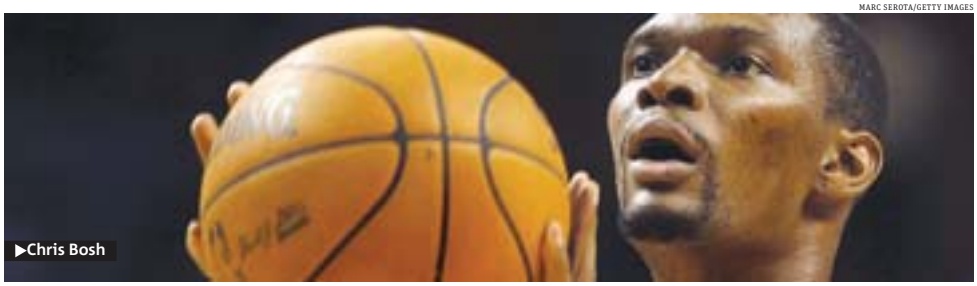
Perfect storm for Raptors?

Just when team is mired in worst slump in years, it hits the road to face its two biggest former stars: Vince Carter and Chris Bosh

MARC SEROTA/GETTY IMAGES



▶Chris Bosh

The last thing anyone struggling with the sting of a bitter breakup wants to see is their ex living it up with someone new.

The Toronto Raptors, losers of six straight and mired in the Eastern Conference basement at 1-7, will face that unpleasant experience not once, but twice this weekend.

First up is a date with Vince Carter, a still haunting flame from the not-too distant past, and his Orlando Magic Friday night. Their four-game road trip then continues in Miami for a meeting with Chris Bosh, the one who got away this summer, and the Heat Saturday.

The Raptors head into those games as a group still trying to overcome the devastation their former stars left behind.

"I pretty much know all his moves, he might have learned some new ones."
AMIR JOHNSON, ON FACING FORMER TEAMMATE CHRIS BOSH

"The Chris Bosh era is gone, we're trying to start our own path, we're trying to start our new era," said forward Sonny Weems. "It hasn't started as good as everyone wanted it to start, but we have 70-something more games to turn it around, and I think it's going to turn around for us."

Maybe, but likely not any time soon, especially given that Jarrett Jack (left thumb), Reggie Evans (bruised hip), Linas Kleiza (Achilles tendon), Leandro Barbosa (left shoulder) and David Andersen (flu) all missed Thursday morning's practice.

While head coach Jay Triano described Jack and Evans as probable for Friday, he was pessimistic about Kleiza ("he has no lift, no spring") and unsure about Andersen, who at least is out of quarantine.

Barbosa won't travel at all so he can continue treatment in Toronto, and Triano quashed the possibility that he might join the Raptors for the back-end of the trip in Washington Tuesday and Philadelphia Wednesday.

"If we felt like that he would travel to stay in tune with what we're doing," said Triano. "The good news is that it felt a lot better (Thursday) than it did (Wednesday). He just needs rest and we don't want it to be something that's going to continually linger."

On Thursday afternoon Charles Oakley, who spent three seasons in Toronto, weighed in on the team's woes via Twitter, writing: "hey raptors fans ... keep your head up. maybe TOR will hire butch carter to coach & me as the asst. I would promise TOR a champ in 2 yrs."

Bautista wins Silver Slugger

Toronto Blue Jays right-fielder Jose Bautista won the Silver Slugger award Thursday as the top right-fielder in the American League in 2010.

Bautista led the majors with 54 home runs, establishing a franchise record in one of the best offensive seasons in club history.

The 30-year-old also led the majors with 92 extra base hits and tied for first with 351 total bases.

Bautista was second in the AL with 100 walks, third with 125 RBIs, a .617 slugging percentage and an OPS of .995. He batted .260, had an on-base percentage of .378 and scored 109 runs.

Bautista is the 22nd Blue Jays player to win a Silver Slugger. Second baseman Aaron Hill and DH Adam Lind won them last year.

Award winners are chosen in a poll of big-league managers and coaches, who are asked to pick the top offensive players at each position in both leagues. They can not vote for players on their own team.

Wilson still thinks Leafs can get it done

The numbers look awful, and doubt is piling high against his team, but Leafs coach Ron Wilson still feels his hockey club can become a winner again this season.

"No, I don't want to say that, I have to figure a way to win with what we have, but yes, I'm confident we can win with this roster," Wilson said when asked where his club will end up this season now that an awful losing streak has dragged it backwards from a nice 4-0 start.

Wilson, like his Leafs, preaches confidence and management of small details as a start to cracking the club's demoralizing performance — one win in its last 11 games. It's akin to a war of attrition for a hockey team that continues to struggle with goal scoring, confidence and competing hard enough in front of the opposition net, among other things.

Beyond the on-ice evidence, though, is a dramatic loss of confidence in a roster that originally appeared fully capable of a winning record. After two losses in Florida this week — ones in which the club's confidence clearly appeared shaken — several experts felt the Leafs would continue with their current struggles for the remainder of the season.

The criticism extended into the coach's office earlier this week, and though Wilson's job security is not an issue, he remains in the path of questions regarding his own performance.

"I don't worry about that stuff, but it does get irritating because this is the only place I hear it," Wilson said, referring to the media.

His players concur.

"It's silly to talk about that," Leafs goalie Jean-Sebastien Giguere said when asked about Wilson's performance.

"(Wilson) puts a game plan ahead of us and it's up to us to execute, and I don't think we have. Can he be blamed for us not scoring on the power play and not scoring goals."

Number of games Phil Kessel has gone without a point.

Here's a look at how NFL teams got where they are halfway through the schedule, and where they might be headed

NFC SOUTH
Let's start with the place where the Super Bowl champions reside. The Saints (6-3) trail Atlanta by a half-game.

New Orleans has begun to gets it offence on track, but needs running backs Pierre Thomas and Reggie Bush to get healthy.

The Falcons (6-2) have ridden the big plays of Matt Ryan throwing to Roddy White, the power running of a healthy Michael Turner, and a solid run defence to the best record in the NFC.

The Buccaneers (5-3) are on the rise, with a penchant for comeback victories behind rapidly developing QB Josh Freeman and rookie wideout Mike Williams, but their run defence is suspect.
Projected Winner: Saints.

NFC NORTH
Yes, the Bears (5-3) are in the mix, but their inability to protect QB Jay Cutler and get sacks figures to hurt down the stretch. Four wins came against last-place teams.

Green Bay (6-3) can really use this week off; no NFC team has more key injuries. If the Packers get healthy, they are Super Bowl contenders, particularly if they find a running game to complement Aaron Rodgers and his receivers.

Minnesota (3-5) leads the division in drama. It also has a relatively easy upcoming schedule, but can Brett Favre hold up?
Projected Winner: Packers.

NFC EAST
The debacle in Dallas (1-7) has taken the attention away from how well the Giants (6-2) rush the quarterback (24 sacks), run and throw. What the Giants haven't done is beat a top contender.

The Eagles (5-3) impressed in Sunday's victory over Indianapolis with a balanced offence led by the rejuvenated Michael Vick and a healthy DeSean Jackson and LeSean McCoy.

Mike Shanahan's weird benching of Donovan McNabb could lead to more problems in Washington (4-4).
Projected Winner: Giants.

NFC WEST
A potential nightmare for the NFL: A sub-.500 team winning this division.

St. Louis and Seattle are 4-4 and struggle on the road. The Rams are gutsy and top overall draft pick QB Sam Bradford has been superb despite few threats around him, except RB Steven Jackson. The Seahawks have been outscored by 51 points and are banged-up.

Arizona (3-5) can't find a quarterback or a defence. San Francisco (2-6) was the division favourite coming in, but poor coaching and communication has hurt.
Projected Winner: Seahawks.

AFC SOUTH
If the Colts (5-3) can't get healthier — their receiving corps is particularly depleted — it won't matter how well Peyton Manning plays. The defence can rush the passer, but there have been coverage issues and the run D is weak.

Tennessee (5-3) has displayed a strong pass rush (26 sacks), has an AFC-high 13 interceptions and RB Chris Johnson has yet to go off. Big question: Randy Moss's effect?

Houston (4-4) was a fashionable pick for its first playoff berth, but can't cover anyone.
Projected Winner: Titans.

AFC NORTH
The race between the Steelers and Ravens, both 6-2, could be the best in the league. Both have powerful, opportunistic defences that will get stingier the next eight weeks.

They have strong QBs and running games, great leadership and the mindset that they own the division. Their meeting Dec. 5 in Baltimore might be the spiciest matchup remaining.

Cleveland (3-5) has impressed with wins over New Orleans and New England, but doesn't have the skill position guys to climb into contention.
Projected Winner: Ravens.

AFC EAST
Both the Patriots and Jets, at 6-2, have holes. Despite Rex Ryan's claims, New York's defence isn't nearly as dominant as last season, and the Jets can't win without a strong running game and an effective blitz.

New England is asking Tom Brady to carry the offence that is in transition, and the defence is up and down.

Miami (4-4) hasn't won at home yet. RB Ronnie Brown must improve and the Dolphins need to protect the ball better (minus-7 in turnovers).

Buffalo (0-8) hasn't won anywhere, but the Bills are playing hard and should get one soon.
Projected Winner: Patriots.

AFC WEST
The rise of the Chiefs (5-3) and Raiders (5-4) has made this division as entertaining as any, with lots of juicy matchups ahead.

KC and Oakland both run well, with the Raiders superior in the air. The Chiefs have a league-low six giveaways, a key number as the weather gets cold.

San Diego (4-5) tends to get hot around now and has won two in a row as QB Philip Rivers posts near-record stats generally with a cast of obscure players. The Chargers are injury ravaged.

Denver is plagued by a wretched running game and worse run defence.
Projected Winner: Chiefs.

Road to redemption

Former German star coach/player to provide ideas and suggestions to TFC

There were lots of questions but few definitive answers Thursday as star soccer consultant Juergen Klinsmann met the media.

The former German star coach and player has been hired as a consultant, along with his company SoccerSolutions, to find the right path for stagnant MLS club Toronto FC.

Rather than offer any preliminary suggestions on TFC's road to redemption, the soccer icon offered a glimpse into how he works.

Klinsmann, who was accompanied by SoccerSolutions vice-president Warren Mersereau, made it clear that his role is to provide ideas and suggestions.

It will be up to Tom Anselmi, executive vice-president and chief operating officer of Maple Leaf Sports and Entertainment, and other club executives to decide what to do with that information.

Klinsmann, who at 46 looks like he could still do some damage on the field, said he brings his experience, knowledge and a "global network" to the table.

"I've worked in Europe and played in four different countries, and know those club systems. Obviously (I) coached the (German) national team and did those kind of things," he told a news conference at BMO Field.

"So I have a pretty good picture of how best practices work around the world. I need to understand how things work in Toronto.

"It's an interesting opportunity for us to work alongside Tom and his staff and, hopefully, we can give him and his team good ideas, good thoughts, help in making hopefully the right decisions.

"The decisions at the end of the day, if it's now regarding possibly a new head coach or a new GM or whoever they are looking at, is obviously totally up to him (Anselmi) and his people."

Eskimos set to fire head coach: Source

The Edmonton Eskimos are in the market for a new head coach.

Eskimos general manager Eric Tillman has decided to fire head coach Richie Hall, a source told The Canadian Press Thursday. A formal announcement will be made at a news conference Friday.

Hall, 50, spent two seasons as the Eskimos head coach, compiling a 16-20 record. Under Hall, Edmonton was 9-9 in 2009 to finish third in the West Division standings, but the club was 7-11 this season and missed the playoffs.

After dropping nine of their first 11 games, the Eskimos won five of six to put themselves in a position to qualify for the playoffs.

But the club lost its regular-season finale 31-23 to the Saskatchewan Roughriders last Saturday to finish two points behind B.C. (8-10) for the third and final West Division playoff spot.

Had Edmonton beat Saskatchewan, it would have finished ahead of the Lions by virtue of having won the season series between the two clubs.

REMY DE LA MAUVINIERE/THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Federer advances

Top-seeded Roger Federer advanced to the quarter-finals of the Paris Masters Thursday, with a 6-4, 6-3 victory over Radek Stepanek. Following his victories in Stockholm and Basel, Federer is on an 11-match winning streak and will next face Jurgen Melzer.

GREAT NORTHERN TALENT

Field of Play

SCOTT RUSSELL

It may be intangible, but to be in a room of 1,000 people to witness the gods and goddesses of sport get their due and enter Canada's Sports Hall of Fame is awe-inspiring.

More than that it's humbling to realize that there is so much talent in this land of ice and snow. Like the country itself, that talent is expressed in complex, wonderful ways, and its limits are endless.

To become aware that this so-called "winter nation" has produced an Olympic gold medal gymnast, a Formula One driving champion, the globe's pioneering and iconic wheelchair racer, a visionary who claimed Olympic rowing gold in a borrowed boat and then built Own the Podium, and a speedskater/cyclist who is arguably all of sport's most generous and accomplished athlete for all seasons, is both reassuring and enlightening.

This is to say nothing of an Olympic skiing champion, the greatest hockey goalie on the planet and a tireless professional football builder. The entire group has fashioned legendary status.

We have nothing to apologize for when it comes to considering the quality of our sporting heroes in Canada. There should be no whining or second-guessing as these graduates of our cultural landscape take their place at the head of the class.

RICHARD WOLOWICZ/GETTY IMAGES

▶ Patrick Roy

They have all realized their vast potential and followed their difficult dreams. To a person, they represent lofty standards for the aspiring youth of this country.

Make no mistake, they are heroes and should be emulated.

There should be no need to identify them here. They should all be household names by now.

Canada's Sports Hall of Fame will soon have a real home in Calgary. It will be a proper shrine to all this achievement where Canadians can go to acquaint themselves with these and other worthy champions who comprise a significant part of our folklore. Then it's up to us to get to know their names and relate the fascinating stories of this great northern talent to others.

Kyle Shewfelt, Jacques Villeneuve, Chantal Petitclerc, Roger Jackson, Clara Hughes, Jean-Luc Brassard, Patrick Roy and Bob Ackles are all worth keeping fresh in our memories.

Today's horoscope

For today's crossword answers and for expanded horoscopes, go to metronews.ca

♈ Aries March 21-April 20 You will meet some interesting people on your travels today and at least one of them is destined to play a major role in your life over the next six months, and maybe longer.

♉ Taurus April 21-May 21 It may seem as if others are conspiring to stop you moving in the direction you want to go but are they really or is your own mind sabotaging your efforts?

♊ Gemini May 22-June 21 If you are as smart as you think you are you will see the futility of trying too hard.

♋ Cancer June 22-July 22 The softer side of your nature will shine through today. You may look tough to the world at large but that's merely your hard outer shell – underneath you are more vulnerable than most people realize

♌ Leo July 23-Aug.23 Sit back, close your eyes and imagine where you would most like to be and what you would most like to be doing by this time next year.

♍ Virgo Aug. 24- Sept. 22 Life does not have to be a battle. You don't have to fight for success. The Sun in the communications area of your chart makes it easy for you to charm your way to the top. Get busy making new friends today.

♎ Libra Sept. 23-Oct. 23 Don't waste too much time trying to figure out why something went wrong. Just pick yourself up and try something else.

♏ Scorpio Oct. 24-Nov. 22 So many of the things you are worrying about bear little or no relation to reality, so stop thinking about them because that gives them power.

♐ Sagittarius Nov. 23-Dec. 21 If you need to kiss and make up, if you need to make amends, now is the time. Also, if you are having second thoughts about travel plans there is still time to put them on hold.

♑ Capricorn Dec. 22-Jan. 20 As usual you are working too hard and as usual you think the way to get ahead is to work even harder. Big mistake!

♒ Aquarius Jan. 21-Feb. 18 Forget about the little things that have gone wrong in your life and focus on the big things that have gone right. So you're not as rich and successful as you would like to be? So what!

♓ Pisces Feb. 19-March 20 Make the most of the favorable cosmic climate to push ahead with a creative or artistic project you hope will impress enough important people to get you recognized. Everyone has a special talent. Yours can make you extra money.
